

Episode 6: Composting in the snow

Well it might be cold and snowy outside but that doesn't stop the compost being made. So here we have all our bits of paper and vegetable bits and all sorts of stuff and the compost bin from the kitchen caddy, including all the old fluff. It's going to go in here, into my Green Johanna, which is doing quite nicely. I have filled it up quite quickly. Let's hope it is going to give me some nice compost for next summer.
